

Total Number of Ads Printed in
"The World" During the Month of December, 1891..... 59,014
Same Month in 1890..... 52,659
A Gain of..... 6,355

PRICE ONE CENT.

LAST EDITION. MORE INDICTED.

True-Bills Found Against Others
of the Outlaws.

They Will Be Gathered In by the Police To-Night.

The Excise Board Considering the Revocation of Licenses.

Some Places of Evil Resort on the Bowery That Need Raiding.

NEW YORK'S OUTLAWS.

(A Table Subject to Daily Change.)

BILLY MCGILROY, in the Penitentiary.
TOM GOULD, indicted.
JOHN KELLY, indicted.
CAREY WELCH, indicted.
THOMAS MCCORMICK, indicted.
DANIEL SCRIBNER, indicted.
AUGUST GUIDON, indicted.
J. H. MCGURK, indicted.
PAUL MCCARTHY, indicted.
A. McALEER, indicted.
LOUIS WALTHERS, indicted.
JAMES LYNCH, indicted.
CHARLES SMITH, indicted.
FRANK STEVENSON, in hiding.
MANAGER DAVIS, Dive Annex Closed.
JIM SULLIVAN, Dive Annex Closed.
KEEPEE OF 34 BOND ST., Dive Annex Closed.

KEEPEE OF THE LEXON, Dive Annex Closed.

LOUIS STAJER, Dive Wide Open.

IGNATZ BUTNER, Dive Wide Open.

EDWIN BUTNER, Dive Wide Open.

More policemen from the dive-infested districts were before the Grand Jury today.

That body was at 12:45 o'clock this afternoon and handed up to Judge Fitzgerald, in Part I. General Sessions, a big batch of indictments.

More than ordinary secrecy is being observed in the District Attorney's office in regard to these indictments, but it may be stated that among the batch handed up to Judge Fitzgerald today were the indictments of other dive-keepers, whose arrest will probably occur before nightfall.

On the ground that it would tend to defeat

the ends of justice the officials decline to say anything definite about the indictments.

New York's outlaws have been given a wholesale lesson. Those of them who have so far escaped arrest are profiting morally if not financially by that lesson.

The men got out of the building as soon as they had entered their pleas.

Their cases have not yet been set down for

trial, and probably the date will not be decided upon for some time to come.

MORE ARRESTS EXPECTED.

Officers with Warrants Said to Be

Looking for Other Outlaws.

It was reported about Police Headquarters

this afternoon that officers armed with warrants had been sent out in search of more of the outlaws whose names have been exposed by THE EVENING WORLD. Supt. Murray declined to talk about the rumor, saying he had nothing further to communicate on the subject of dives just now. The last two words were given a peculiar emphasis.

One of the detectives attached to the Central office intimated that several arrests

would be made late in the afternoon.

Capt. Ryan, of the Mercer street station, has made an official report to Supt. Murray on the character of the place on Bleecker street known as the Slide. The report is described as being closed, but the report declines to say it had been a meeting place for disreputable men and women and for thieves.

Capt. Ryan also investigated and reported upon the Metropolitan dance hall at 34 Bond street and the house at 78 West Third street.

Both places are said to be frequented by dissolute and disorderly characters.

TO REVOKE DIVE LICENSES.

The Excise Board Considering Davis

and Welch's Cases To-Day.

The Board of Excise met this afternoon to listen to the evidence against Manager

Davis' "Racine Exchange," and Carey

Welch's "Hole in the Wall," collected by

CARDINALS DEAD.

Manning Passes Away at Westminster, Simeoni at Rome.

Influenza the Primary Disease in Both

Instances.

The Pope's Blessing Comforts the English Prelate's Last Hours.

Simeoni Long Distinguished in High

Offices of the Church.

OFFICIAL TO THE EVENING WORLD.
LONDON, Jan. 14.—Cardinal Henry Edward Manning, the distinguished prelate of the Roman Catholic Church, died at 8:20 this morning at the Archbishop's house, Westminster. The aged divine had been ill for some time past with the influenza, now prevailing as a violent epidemic throughout Europe.

Until within the past twenty-four hours, however, his condition was not regarded as serious and his physicians looked hopefully for a rally.

Yesterday morning there was a decided change for the worse, and the Cardinal's malady assumed a very grave aspect.

He was attacked with congestion of the lungs, and during the day his condition became more and more alarming.

He grew weaker and weaker every hour,
and towards evening his physicians, unable to administer anything for his relief, pronounced his case a hopeless one, and a bulletin was issued stating that death might be expected at any moment.

The Cardinal retained consciousness, however, despite his extreme weakness and suffering, and when the last sacrament of the Church was administered to him, late in the afternoon, he was able to make the formal profession of his faith.

The ceremony was conducted with great impressiveness as about the bedside of the dying
Cardinal, in the presence of the full-board
Canons of the diocese.

After the ceremony the venerable prelate pronounced his blessing upon the priests who attended him.

The Pope, who had been apprised of the sudden change for the worse in the Cardinal's condition, sent his blessing to the dying prelate by telegraph.

His death was a great loss to the Roman Catholic Church, and seemed to give him great comfort and consolation.

He apparently realized that his end was near. Telegrams were also sent to the high church dignitaries in Europe and the United States, informing them that all hope of the Cardinal's recovery had been given up.

Not guilty," was the reply, and McCormick scolded out.

John H. McGurk, Paul McCarthy, John
Kelly and Smith followed in succession.

None of them were accompanied by their lawyers, and the response made by each one to the question of the clerk was:

"Not guilty."

When Gould was called he came swaggering up the aisle with a grim smile on his face.

He said "Not guilty" in a loud tone, and then, making a low bow to the Court, walked slowly down to the door.

Carey Welch then went up and whispered a few words to the Clerk, and the ceremony was over.

The men got out of the building as soon as

they had entered their pleas.

Their cases have not yet been set down for

trial, and probably the date will not be decided upon for some time to come.

It was there that he passed his last illness.

His Eminence Henry Edward, Cardinal

Priest of the Roman Church, and Archbishop of Westminster, was the son of the late Wm.

Manning, esq., M. P., merchant, of London.

He was born at Tottenham, Hertfordshire,

July 15, 1808, was educated at Harrow and

Banet College, Oxford, where he graduated

B. A. in first-class honors in 1830 and became Fellow of Merton College.

He was for some time one of the select preachers in the University of Oxford, was appointed Rector of Lexington and Graham,

Sussex, 1834, and Archbishop of Chichester in 1840.

His preferences he resigned in 1851, on joining the Roman Catholic Church, in which he entered the priesthood, and in 1857 found an ecclesiastical congregation at Bay-water, entitled the Oblates of St. Charles Bo-romee.

The degree of D.D. was conferred upon him at Rome and the office of Provost of the Catholic University of Westminster, June 8, 1865.

Pope Pius IX. created him a Cardinal

Priest March 15, 1875, the title assigned to him being that of St. Andrew and Gregory on

EXTRA.

THE PRINCE DEAD.

Albert Victor Beaten in His Brave

Wrestle with Disease.

England Mourns the Late Heir Presump-

tive to Her Throne.

And Albert Edward, of Wales, Has

Lost His Eldest Son.

Fatal Pneumonia Follows a Cold

Taken on a Hunting Tour.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Duke of Clarence
and Avondale's death.

The Prince of Wales has sent the following telegram to the Lord Mayor of London:

"Our beloved son passed away at 9 o'clock
to-day. ALBERT EDWARD."

The news of the death of the Duke of Clarence
has caused widespread grief, and already demonstrations of the public feeling
are everywhere apparent.

At all public buildings flags are displayed
at half staff, and throughout the whole of London the sad intelligence has been received
with expressions of the deepest sorrow.

The bells in Westminster Abbey were tolled
from 12 o'clock until 1.

Telegrams from all parts of the Kingdom
show that the news of the death of the Duke
was received everywhere with tokens of deep
respect and sorrow.

The Duke of Connaught and Strathearn,
uncle of Prince Albert Victor and personal Alders-Camp to the queen, arrived at Portsmouth at noon from London. He travelled in the royal yacht Albert and Victoria, which entered Portsmouth Harbor with the ensign
at half-mast.

As the royal yacht got aboard of the flag-
ship Victoria the latter's ensign was lowered
to half-mast and this movement was followed by all the other ships in the harbor.

The Duke took a special train for Sandring-
ham.

Her Majesty the Queen is prostrated by the death of her grandson and did not feel equal
to the task of accompanying the Duke of Connaught. She still remains at Osborne House.

The Queen has ordered that the Court go into full mourning for three months, and cancelled all the "drawing rooms" and state
levees.

Her Majesty announced that the funeral of the Duke will be a state function and will be held in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Palace.

It was in this chapel that the marriage of the Duke to Princess Victoria Mary was to have taken place on Feb. 27 next.

Albert Victor Christian Edward was the eldest of the five children of Albert Edward,
Prince of Wales, and Alexandra of Denmark,
Princess of Wales.

He was the grandson of Her Imperial Majesty Queen Victoria and great-grandson of old King George III.

Thus he was heir presumptive to the throne
of Great Britain and Ireland and the Imperial crown of India. His royal grandmother is nearly seventy-two years old, and the Prince of Wales is fifty-one, and only their eldest son, Prince Albert Victor, and his bride-
elect remained within call.

The Lord Mayor first received a telegram
telling him that the Duke of Clarence and Avondale had died at 9 o'clock, concerning
the condition of the dying Prince.

This news was from Sir Francis de Winton,
Comptroller and Treasurer of the Household
of the Prince. The despatch was as follows:

"A change for the worse has occurred. We fear there is not much hope."

Then at 9:35 o'clock the Lord Mayor received the following:

"His Royal Highness passed away at 9:15
o'clock."

After this came the despatch from the Prince of Wales, announcing his son's death.

On receipt of the news the Lord Mayor at once gave orders to have the great bell in St.
Paul's Cathedral tolled and also sent the following telegram to the Prince of Wales:

"We are profoundly moved by the sad
news and have communicated it to our fellow-citizens. We tender our deep and respected sympathy with Your Royal Highness in this great sorrow and national calamity."

The news of the death of the young Prince was announced to the people of London by the tolling of the bells of St. Paul's cathedral.

The bells of St. Paul's are only tolled for persons of royal rank or of great eminence in the nation.

People were not widely prepared for the news of the Duke's death.

Bulletins issued last evening stated that congestion had spread to both his lungs, and that he was sinking rapidly.

The Queen, who is at Osborne House, Isle of Wight, is expected to come to Sandringham Hall at once.

Up to noon no official bulletin of the death of the Duke had been issued at Sandringham Hall, but soon after 10 o'clock the bluffs of the house were drawn, the flag on the church was placed at half-mast and the church bell began tolling. These facts gave to the people waiting about the gates the first information that all was over.

The telegram from the Prince of Wales to Lord Mayor Evans announcing the death of the Duke was not posted at the Mansion House until 10:30 o'clock. When the little bulletin was posted it was put up there were only a few persons waiting. They received the news with stolid indifference.

As the day progressed, the crowd in the vicinity of Marlborough House increased. The Mansion House was completely blocked with carriage conveying the most noted people of the Kingdom. (Lords Salisbury, the Prime Minister, and Lady Salisbury and nearly the entire Diplomatic Corps were among the callers.

The afternoon papers all appear with mourning borders.

At 1 o'clock this afternoon the following

EXTRA.

THE PRINCE DEAD.

Albert Victor Beaten in His Brave

Wrestle with Disease.

England Mourns the Late Heir Presump-

tive to Her Throne.

And Albert Edward, of Wales, Has

Lost His Eldest Son.

Fatal Pneumonia Follows a Cold

Taken on a Hunting Tour.

BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.
LONDON, Jan. 14.—The Duke of Clarence
and Avondale's death.

The Prince of Wales has sent the following
telegram to the Lord Mayor of London:

"Our beloved son passed away at 9 o'clock
to-day. ALBERT EDWARD."

The news of the death of the Duke of Clarence
has caused widespread grief, and already demonstrations of the public feeling
are everywhere apparent.

At all public buildings flags are displayed
at half staff, and throughout the whole of London the sad intelligence has been received
with expressions of the deepest sorrow.

The bells in Westminster Abbey were tolled
from 12 o'clock until 1.

Telegrams from all parts of the Kingdom
show that the news of the death of the Duke
was received everywhere with tokens of deep
respect and sorrow.

The Duke of Connaught and Strathearn,
uncle of Prince Albert Victor and personal
Alders-Camp to the queen, arrived at Portsmouth at noon from London. He travelled in
the royal yacht Albert and Victoria, which
entered Portsmouth Harbor with the ensign
at half-mast.

As the royal yacht got aboard of the flag-
ship Victoria the latter's ensign was lowered
to half-mast and this movement was followed
by all the other ships in the harbor.

The Duke took a special train for Sandring-
ham.

Her Majesty the Queen is prostrated by the death of her grandson and did not feel equal
to the task of accompanying the Duke of Con-
naught. She still remains at Osborne House.

The Queen has ordered that the Court go
into full mourning for three months, and cancelled all the "drawing rooms" and state
levees.

Her Majesty announced that the funeral of
the Duke will be a state function and will be held in St. George's Chapel, Windsor Palace.

It was in this chapel that the marriage of
the Duke to Princess Victoria Mary was to have taken place on Feb. 27 next.

Albert Victor Christian Edward was the
eldest of the five children of Albert Edward,
Prince of Wales, and Alexandra of Denmark,
Princess of Wales.

He was the grandson of Her Imperial Majesty Queen Victoria and great-grand-
son of old King George III.

Thus he was heir presumptive to the throne
of Great Britain and Ireland and the Imperial crown of India. His royal grandmother is nearly seventy-two years old, and the Prince
of Wales is fifty-one, and only their eldest
son, Prince Albert Victor, and his bride-
elect remained within call.

The Lord Mayor first received a telegram
telling him that the Duke of Clarence and Avondale had died at 9 o'clock, concerning
the condition of the dying Prince.

This news was from Sir Francis de Winton,
Comptroller and Treasurer of the Household
of the Prince. The despatch was as follows:

"A change for the worse has occurred. We fear there is not much hope."

Then at 9:35 o'clock the Lord Mayor received the following:

"His Royal Highness passed away at 9:15
o'clock."

After this came the despatch from the Prince of Wales, announcing his son's death.

On receipt of the news the Lord Mayor at
once gave orders to have the great bell in St.
Paul's Cathedral tolled and also sent the following telegram to the Prince of Wales:

"We are profoundly moved by the sad
news and have communicated it to our fellow-citizens. We tender our deep and respected sympathy with Your Royal Highness in this great sorrow and national calamity."

The news of the death of the young
Prince was announced to the people of London by the tolling of the bells of St. Paul's cathedral.

The bells of St. Paul's are only tolled for persons of royal rank or of great eminence in
the nation.

People were not widely prepared for the
news of the Duke's death.